

Florence Hardy advocated the right to have children educated in French to the Prince Edward Island Supreme Court; Noella Arsenault and Madelaeine Costa went before the Supreme Court of Canada. Together, they successfully ensured access to French-language education in Prince Edward Island.